

Ex-tensions, an interactive photographic project by médéric degoy

- An artist: Médéric Degoy
- An artwork: action photography, without editing nor retouching
- A dedicated website: interactive composition of unique combinations

* An artist, an artwork, an interactive site

" After my last series of abstract photographs, I felt the need to push the aesthetic appeal of my images a little further, keeping with my edit-free photographic technique, but creating echoes between the shots by combining them in multi-panel series.

While I was designing diptychs for collectors, I got the idea to include an interactive tool to let them test various possibilities, while still providing some guidance and keeping my artist's eye in the work.

My abstract pieces, which I've divided into twelve series according to the meanings that I have imbued them with, leave great freedom; anyone can project their own vision onto them and so each collector enriches the result with the highly personal echoes of that vision. "

* Limited editions for prints and digital files

I still propose C-Prints mounted on Dibond, but also digital files for a computer, a smartphone or a website ; all of which are also in limited editions ; combinations are single editions.

* Digital copies : the buyer sets his price

" I was seduced by the way some music bands left to the user the price setting part when downloading their album ; the price for my digital copies is absolutely free : thus, anyone loving my work has the possibility to get one of my original works, in its limited edition. "

* An artistic approach for a new interactive era

" I plan to go on posting new pictures in all the series on an ongoing basis. I love the idea that anyone who appreciates my work can browse or assemble my images by projecting their own meaning on them! I also love the immediacy that this new tool provides as well as the openness and availability that the internet provides: the creation of collections of personal combinations, digital copies, newsletters, screensavers... and all driven by the user's own combinations; all of which is done by the use of tools that might in themselves seem incidental, but actually allow anybody to take possession of my work and make it resonate theirselves.

I look forward to your impressions of my new work and this exciting new interactive approach to art and meaning for the twenty-first century."
